

Mike's Daily Lead Workflow

Plain-language operating guide for real leads. Assignment and first-contact times are internal targets, not public guarantees.

Example visual only: every real alert uses live HTML/text for accessible details. A QA subject starts with [TEST].

1. When an alert arrives

- 1 Confirm the subject is not marked [TEST].
- 2 Open the secure Lead Center link; do not forward private details.
- 3 Check source, intent, score explanation, consent, assignment, and duplicate status.
- 4 Accept the assignment as quickly as practical. The internal target is two minutes.
- 5 Call or email only through a consent-permitted channel. The internal first-contact target is five minutes.

Lead Statuses

Use the status that describes what actually happened.

Label	Meaning	Next action
HOT	Score 80-100	Review first; respond promptly
ACTIVE	Score 60-79	Work in the normal priority queue
NEW	Score below 60	Review and qualify; do not ignore
Attempted	A real outreach attempt was made	Record channel and time
Contacted	Two-way contact occurred	Record outcome and next action
Appointment	A real appointment is requested or set	Record only confirmed details
Nurture	Valid lead, longer timing	Set the next follow-up
Signed client	Agreement actually signed	Record date and permitted value
Closed	Transaction actually closed	Record verified gross attributed revenue
Bad lead	Spam, invalid, duplicate, or disqualified	Choose the actual reason; never delete evidence

Escalation and Daily Close

Protect the lead, preserve evidence, and ask for technical help when the system fails.

If Mike does not respond

- The system records an unaccepted-assignment or first-contact target breach.
- Brandon reviews queue, delivery, duplicate, and assignment state.
- A genuine lead is never converted into a QA record or deleted.

Technical failures

- Email failed: preserve the lead; the queue retries and surfaces the failure.
- Lead missing from the Lead Center: record the public correlation ID and contact Brandon.
- Duplicate suspicion: contact one master record only and preserve both audit trails.
- Out-of-area or coastal review: leave assigned to Mike/admin until an approved routing decision exists.

End of day

- 1 No unassigned genuine lead remains without an owner.
- 2 Every contact attempt and next action is recorded.
- 3 Actual appointments, signed clients, closings, and revenue are recorded only when verified.
- 4 Technical failures are assigned to Brandon with the correlation ID, never with secrets.
